

Clintonville History Day

Saturday, March 7 | 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Whetstone Branch | 3909 N. High St.

Connect with local historians from the Clintonville Historical Society, share your own Clintonville stories, bring documents and photos for digitization and inclusion in our My History collection, record your own oral history and more. We'll have programs and activities for all ages.

Family Storytime

11-11:30 a.m.

We'll introduce your little ones to the wonders of local history through fun and engaging stories. With interactive activities and captivating tales, we'll spark kids' curiosity and love for history.

World Heritage in Our Backyard: The Story of Newark Earthworks

12-1 p.m.

Archaeologist Catherine Gullet will share about this awe-inspiring, 1,600-year-old UNESCO World Heritage landmark.

Ohio's Indigenous History from the Ice Age to the Indian Removal Act

1:30-2:30 p.m.

Join archaeologist Dr. Brad Lepper for a fascinating journey through 15,000 years of Ohio indigenous history.

If Walls Could Talk: Tales from a Century-and-a-Half-Old House

3-4 p.m.

Step inside history as Brad Schwartz shares the remarkable restoration of his 150-year-old South Clintonville home.

All Day:

Artifact Display

Discover the rich heritage of our community through a captivating display of local artifacts, each telling a unique story of our shared past.

Record an Oral History

Record an interview and share your memories with future generations. Our Local History & Genealogy team will preserve select interviews on My History, the library's digital history collection.

Scan or Donate Historic Items

Our Local History & Genealogy team will be here to scan photos and documents to be added to our My History digital collection and accept donations for our archives.
